

COAL MEN

MEET AT KNOXVILLE TODAY FOR SEMI-ANNUAL SESSION.

Men Who Were in Paducah Last Fall Enjoying Hospitality of East Tennessee.

Knoxville, Tenn., April 14.—The largest meeting of coal men ever held in the south is on at Knoxville. Great preparations have been made by the coal operators of the Tennessee-Kentucky coal fields to show the visiting coal men a good time. It is a joint meeting of the members of the South-eastern Retail Coal Merchants' association and the Kentucky-Tennessee Retail Coal Dealers' association. Since the coal operators are to be on hand it may be said that it is a meeting of the operators and dealers of the south-east and Kentucky, the invitations being to all dealers and operators, whether members of either association or not.

The operators have arranged for a banquet, steamboat and trolley rides, a visit to the mines and a big Korus-cation of Ko Koals. The convention was opened with an address of welcome from the mayor of the city and responses were made by George M. Chowning, of Shelbyville, Ky., and C. O. Harper, of Rome, Ga.

A joint session of Wednesday morning will be addressed by L. Green, traffic manager of the Southern railroad; C. D. Boyd, general freight agent of the Louisville and Nashville railroad; De Los Bull, president of the retail coal men, and J. A. Yarbrough, of Charlotte, N. C.

Resolutions of Respect.

Whereas, It has pleased Divine Providence in His inscrutable wisdom to remove from our midst and take to His heavenly home our late beloved brother, John T. Fisher, late treasurer and financial secretary of our order. Therefore be it

Resolved, That this lodge, Catholic Knights of America, branch No. 15, of Paducah, Ky., has suffered the loss of a zealous, efficient and worthy member and brother; a loss that will ever be noticed and felt and one that is a sad blow to our order.

Resolved, That the city has lost a good citizen; one who spread a good example as a law-abiding, industrious and exemplary man.

Resolved, That we sincerely condole with his wife, daughter, sisters and brother, and hope that while his memory will, we are certain, ever remain green in their memory and also in the memory of this order, that the healing hand of time will gradually assuage the poignancy of their grief over their heavy affliction.

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be spread upon a memorial page of the records of our order; that a copy thereof be furnished to our late brother's bereaved family and that they be published in the Paducah Daily Sun.

SCHOOL NOTES

Thirty-one male students of the High school were "on the carpet" before Superintendent Carnagey this morning for plotting to be tardy yesterday morning, because the teachers had made a rule that students must not enter the school grounds before the regular time. Yesterday the boys it is alleged, met by agreement on a street corner and after waiting until the last bell had sounded and the pupils were seated in their places, marched in a body to the school. They were given a reprimand this morning and allowed to go under promise to be good hereafter.

Mr. J. J. Berry, who was to have addressed the High school pupils this morning, telephoned Superintendent Carnagey he would be unable to be present and requested that he be given a date later in the week, which was done.

Miss Elizabeth Daugherty, teacher of the Seventh grade at the High school, is ill today.

Miss Lucy Moore, teacher of the fifth grade at the Longfellow school, is off duty today on account of sickness.

Suggestions for Teachers' Meeting Friday, May 8, 1908.

(Chapters 13, 14, 15, Keth's Elementary Education.)

The questions on "Theory and Practice of Teaching" for the teachers' examination will be based upon Keth's work. The appendix and questions for study will be very helpful to those who are preparing for that examination.

1. Discuss the nature of attention and interest, giving the factors that make for the continuance of each.

2. The self grows through its activity. Attention assures this activity. Therefore, how does attention foster, apperception? What is the effect of attention upon the retention of experiences? Explain the sentence: "Attention is the sine qua non of instruction."

3. Upon what things does class interest depend?

4. Upon what things does class attention depend?

5. Show the relation of participation to class interest and attention.

6. How are habits of attention formed and what are their values? Same for permanent lines of interest.

7. Read the preface in connection with Chapter XIV and discuss the points of both. Why should the teacher be mature? What is it to be mature? How can the teacher come to understand the development of the child? Why is guidance necessary for inexperienced teachers?

8. What should be the underlying

9. Read and discuss in a critical way the theses of Chapter XV. What would you think of these theses as basal points in a teacher's conception of what his work involves?

10. Read the "Analytical Summary," asking yourself regarding each sentence, "Is it true?" "What relation does it bear to effective teaching?" J. A. CARNAGEY, Superintendent.

JUST a word of suggestion to you: A lot of men who intend to buy clothes before Easter will wait until the last minute. Let them; you be early, so we can be sure things are just right, without rushing.

The finest clothes made are here; perfect tailoring, correct in style, exact in fit. Roxboro, Hart, Schaffner & Marx and other premier lines are shown in profusion. All the smart "jungle" colors in browns, grays, tans, olives, mode and English pin stripes; all well represented. As for the price, you just decide for yourself how much you want to spend; we're here to see that you get the greatest possible value for the money.

Roxboro Clothes for Men $20 to $50

Roxboro Clothes for Young Men $18 to $35

Other Leading Lines $7.50 to $20

YOU'LL never see or wear better shirts than the ones which we are showing for Easter. The patterns are bright and new and in perfect accord with the dictates of refined taste.

Wallerstein's Special $1 to $2.50

Cluett and Star $1.50 to $2.50

E. & W. $2.50 to $3.50

GOV. JOHNSON

GUEST OF HONOR AT BANQUET IN LOUISVILLE LAST NIGHT.

Minnesota Executive Dines at Home of His Room and is Principal Speaker.

Louisville, Ky., April 14.—Governor Johnson, of Minnesota, was given his first formal introduction to the Democrats of Kentucky at a banquet of the Jefferson club, where he delivered the principal address of the evening. He was introduced by Governor Wilson, a Republican.

Johnson's speech, while rather brief, touched upon Democratic principles and the development of Jeffersonian doctrines by present day needs.

EX-PITCHER AS CONGRESSMAN.

J. K. Tener, Once Famous in National League, Gets G. O. P. Nomination.

Pittsburg, April 14.—Almost like a page from "The Arabian Nights" is the story of the life of John K. Tener, who, to the surprise of every one, was nominated by the Republican convention for member of congress from the Twenty-fourth congressional district to succeed Ernest F. Acheson, who for fourteen years has held the seat and was supposed to have almost a life claim on it.

Less than twenty years ago, John K. Tener was famous as a National league baseball pitcher. Today, he slides being sure of a seat in congress, Mr. Tener is the grand exalted ruler of the Elks, and is a banker whose check would be honored without question for $1,000,000.

From 1885 to 1889 John Tener was a pitcher for the Pittsburg and Chicago teams. In 1889 A. G. Spaulding sent a team of ball players around the world, and Tener was selected as one of the pitchers.

Tener then retired from baseball and started in the real estate business in Charleroi, on the Monongahela river, forty miles above Pittsburg. He bought and sold coal lands, built houses and then started a bank.

Time Isn't Money in London.

The operation of the great banking houses of London is typical of England. The bankers, like most of the business men of the metropolis, are very polite, but also like other Englishmen, carry on business in a way that seems extremely deliberate to Americans, says the Kansas City Star. An American called at one of the London banks a few days ago to buy a New York draft for $50. It was then about 10:20 o'clock in the morning. The teller requested a memorandum of his wants and then, bowing, said: "Thank you, sir. The draft will be ready for you at 3:20 o'clock this afternoon. Will you call for it or may I mail it to you?"

This was not an isolated case. It is simply London's way. When a person makes a deposit he is given no pass or deposit book, and he is required to pay a small amount for his checkbook. On beginning business with the bank he signs his name in a large record book and the signatures on the checks he draws subsequently, which, of course, must correspond with that in the large book, are the only evidence of deposit he has to offer. A woman depositor must, immediately upon her marriage, furnish the bank with her new signature. Some bankers even require her to produce the certificate of her marriage.

The paying teller is provided with a small shovel and when a person withdraws a portion of his account or cashes a check, the clerk lifts the money in the shovel and from that utensil empties the coin upon the counter in front of the customer.

Indignant Citizen—Say! Your boy threw a stone at me just now and barely missed me. Mr. Grogan—Yes, any he missed me? Indignant Citizen—That's what I understood myself to remark. Mr. Grogan—It was not my boy. —New Century.

THE WRONG END OF THE HORN.

"Ah, there, old Solo Leather!

"Oh, your Uncle Willy is on to all such tricks as that!

"Ah! That's a new wrinkle, is it?"

The Elephant: "You'll know when you are well off next time, my friend."

"Now, how do you like that?"

"The next time you want to monkey take some one of your size!"

The Funny Things One Sees

By
MARSHALL P. WILDER

(Copyright, by Joseph B. Howles.)

While at the Imperial hotel, Tokio, we were permitted to witness a portion of a Japanese wedding, that is, the feast and reception. Like our friends in America, the Japanese now hire the parlors of a hotel, chiefly because their little doll houses are so small. It was very funny; the women all like embarrassed images, done up in their best kimono and not saying a word, while the men, in stiff, badly-fitting European "store clothes," stood around in little groups and talked, looking like animated tailors' dummies.

One young man picked out a native air on the piano with one finger, while the children were the only ones who were at all happy, or didn't look as if they wished they hadn't come.

Saya Mrs. Peace to Miss Sharp, a caller: "My husband and I never dispute before the children. When a quarrel seems imminent, we always send them out."

Miss Sharp: "Ah, I've often wondered why they're so much in the street!"

Hateful thing, wasn't she?

Japanese trains are small and slow, and seem not to think it necessary ever to be on time. Smoking is allowed in every class, even in the sleeping cars.

The bedding is clean and sufficient, but there are no springs in the beds, absolutely no privacy, and one tiny window for the whole compartment, public opinion being usually divided as to whether it shall be opened or closed.

This reminds me of a story my friend, Col. Cody ("Buffalo Bill") used to tell. He said that once upon a time an Englishman who had never been in the west before was his guest. They were riding through a Rock Mountain canyon one day, when suddenly a tremendous gust of wind came sweeping down upon them, and actually carried the Englishman clear off the wagon seat. After he had been picked up, he combed the sand and gravel out of his whiskers and said:

"I say! I think you overdo ventilation in this idiom country!"

My berth was over the wheels, and this, together with a rumbled of which a coal railroad in Pennsylvania would be ashamed, produced such jolts and bumps that my brain felt as though it had been through an egg-beater. The compartment was full, one occupant being a German army officer, who, besides being in full uniform, even to enormous fur-lined overcoat, sword and spurs, brought in to choke the little available space a satchel, a large flat wicker hamper and a packing box. He also had a very industrious and far-reaching snore with him.

The third occupant being a traveling Catholic priest and, like the soldier, Picked Out a Native Air on the Piano.

Her, a man of huge proportions, I was rather interested to know which of these was to occupy the berth over me, for it seemed a flimsy sort of affair, and I took particular pains to see that it was well propped up.

I was rather relieved to find it was to be the soldier, for I consoled myself with the old adage that the pen is mightier than the sword and decided it would be a worse calamity to have the church down on me than the army. Even if sleep with all these considerations had been possible, the frequent stops would have completely put it to flight, for the moment a train arrives at a station, no matter what the time of night, the soldiers of lunch boxes, of milk, tea or tobacco begin to cry their wares, in tones that are like the wailings of lost souls, and for penetration and volume unequalled by anything in my experience.

The sellers of tea at the stations will give you a small teapot filled with hot tea, and a tiny cup, all for three cents, or a cent and a half in America money.

At the railroad stations during the war with Russia one was sure to see parties of wounded soldiers returning from the front; or those who were departing for the seat of war. These latter were always attended by a crowd of men and women, who waved small Japanese flags and gave a shout as the train moved away. This shout is really more of a screech than a good, round cheer, such as would be heard in America, for it seems as if there is some physical reason why the Japanese people cannot raise their voices without producing the most blood-curdling sounds. The street cries are all strident and unpleasant; the commands of officers to their men tiny and rasping-like, while Japanese slinging, to a foreigner, is conducive to nervous prostration.

I have spoken somewhat of the external attitude of these people. Of their interior attitude of heart and mind much more might be said, especially in regard to their late war with Russia, which was going on at the time of my visit. This was something they would not talk about. Any mention of the subject was met with an abrupt change of the conversation into other channels; but luteous patriotism, the most supreme confidence in their ultimate success reigned in every heart. Examples of the most heroic self-sacrifice were not lacking. A Japanese mother had given her three sons to the war. The first was reported slain. She smiled and said, "It is well. I am happy." The second lay dead upon the field. She smiled again, and said, "I am still happy." The third gave up his life, and they said to her: "At last you weep!" "Yes!" she said, "but it is because I have no more sons to give to my beloved country!"

Now, this is all very beautiful, but as my mission in life is laughter instead of tears, I want to say that it reminds me of a little story of our country and our war—the war of the great rebellion. When, in answer to the call for troops, the blood of our noble volunteers had been poured out upon southern fields for three long years, there arose a class of men called "bounty jumpers" who, acting as substitutes for drafted men and taking a large sum of money for the job, sometimes "jumped the bounty" and disappeared instead of going to the front to serve Uncle Sam. These men were subjected to a medical examination which, in the hands of unscrupulous physicians (who received a large fee if the man "passed"), was not always as rigorous as it should be. A doctor who was seen coming out of the examining room with a very sour face was greeted by a friend with a "Hello, Doc! What's the matter? Didn't you pass your man?"

"Pass nothin'!"

"Why, he looked all right!"

"All right! Why he was sound as a nut; but the colonel of the regiment suggested we stand him up on a high table and make him jump to the floor, and, by Jove! if his confounded glass eye didn't fall out and spoil the whole business!"

The working class still cling to the ancient custom and methods. Today leaders are made of bamboo, the rungs lashed fast with rope, as they have been made for generations. The streets are watered with little carts having a row of holes at the back, and pulled by men, who fill them slowly and laboriously one bucket at a time, while the sidewalks are watered by two perforated buckets, suspended from a bamboo pole laid across the shoulders of a man, who trots in and out between the people, turning and twisting until the walk is thoroughly sprinkled.

Everything seems to be done the hardest way, and those who work, work very hard. The few men who have a horse dray never sit and drive, even when the dray is empty, but always walk ahead, dragging the patient brute along. Loads are more frequently carried on hand-carts, pulled by men, women or boys. In going up a hill three or four men will pull or push, intoning a sort of droning song as they work.

In the country districts life in its most primitive and ancient aspects may be seen. In the rice fields men and women work side by side, their naked bodies gleaming from contact with the stubble, wielding tools of a pattern as old as the cultivation of the grain.

The evolution of the new Japan from the chrysalis of the old is an interesting study just now. All signs point toward the springing up of a new country, full-fledged, ready to spread its bright wings and fly away from the old, that has wrapped it close for so many centuries; but the time is not yet.

CHELSEA RUINS

Donations for Relief of Sufferers Coming in Fast.

Nothing Can Be Saved as Fire Underwriters View Ruins—Latest Returns Place Loss at $5,575,000.

INSURANCE ONLY $3,500,000.

Boston, April 14.—The total loss by the fire at Chelsea is estimated at $5,575,000 as follows:
Churches and schools $ 525,000
Public buildings 175,000
Factories, business blocks and contents 2,500,000
Dwelling houses 2,375,000

The insurance of $3,500,000 is divided among about eighty companies. The territory swept by the fire is 350 acres; the number homeless is 10,000; deaths, three.

The work of relief is already well in hand, and subscriptions are so liberal that the mayor of Chelsea has withdrawn a general appeal and confined it to Massachusetts.

The burned district was closely patrolled by militia. The work of guard, however, consisted mostly in keeping the people from venturing too near the standing walls.

There was little property remaining to be guarded, so thoroughly had the area been swept by flames. In fact, the underwriters who viewed the ruins today saw no prospect of salvage of any description.

JAMES MOORE ELECTED TO POSITION ON THE FORCE.

First Menzies Is Made Eminent at Central Station—Planning Contract Let.

James Moore, a groceryman, of Tennessee street, was elected to serve on the police force by the fire and police commissioners last night to succeed Edward Alexander, whose resignation was tendered and accepted. Mr. Alexander will enter business.

Fred Menzies was elected to fill the vacancy in the fire department caused by the resignation of Samuel White, of Central station, who gave up his position some time ago to go to Cairo.

The bids from plumbers to install a toilet room in the fire station at Tenth and Clay streets were opened and the contract was awarded to Ed Hannan, who was the lowest bidder, his bid being $73. The other bids ranged from $150 to $175.

TROUBLE CEASED

When Proper Food Was Found, food news benefits both parties; the teller and the one to whom the glad story is told.

A man out in Dakota told another man how he had been set on his feet, as it were, by a good doctor who knew how to treat stomach cases in a really scientific way—by the use of proper food.

"About five years ago," writes the man, "I was suffering from dyspepsia gas in the stomach and I was on the verge of nervous prostration when I met a man who told me how he had been relieved of a similar trouble. 'He had suffered with stomach trouble for years as a result of eating improper food. He was at the time I write, doing the work of an ordinary laborer and said he never felt so well.'

"His doctor had emptied the stomach and then prescribed nothing but Grape-Nuts, soft boiled eggs, and dry toast. He got well under this treatment. I followed his advice and lived on Grape-Nuts with cream, fruit and toast for a month. My trouble ceased almost immediately.

"The strengthening effect on my nerves was so gradual I can't just tell when I began to improve, but in a few weeks I could sit contentedly for hours whereas before, I was restless and nervous. In a month or two I could sleep the moment I lay down.

"When my little boy was a year and a half old he had a bad attack of indigestion while I was away from home. He vomited four days and nights. I had never seen Grape-Nuts recommended for babies but I decided I would try it. I warmed and softened the food in water that had been boiled, two teaspoonfuls water, three teaspoonfuls rich milk.

"As his stomach got better, I left out the water and used only warm milk. He is now a strong, active child of two years and eats Grape-Nuts three times a day." "There's a reason."

GET READY TOMORROW FOR EASTER!

DON'T wait until the last day to select your suit because then will not be taken care of as well, due to the fact that our Alteration Department will be crowded with work. No extra charge for alterations and reduced prices on all cloth suits at our store during the remainder of this week.

$25.00 Suits—Rajah Panamas, Chiffon Panamas, Silk Suits in great numbers at this price. Before this season we were unable to offer well made clothes like these for that money, but right now, in the heart of the spring season we desire to sell a majority of our cloth suits and that's why we allow them to bring so small a profit. These are prettily made, with the long dip fronts, some with the new kimono sleeves, others in the more staple styles. They range in all colors and were you to pay as much as $35 for these suits you would not be paying more than they are worth.

We suggest that you make your purchase for Easter at once as we are well prepared in our alteration room to let you have them for Sunday's wear. Do not wait until the last day of the week or even Friday to get your suit but come in the morning, and come with a feeling that you are going to get a $35 suit for $25, and get it altered in time to wear Easter. No extra charge for alterations and a fit guaranteed.

LINEN SUITS—Not the ordinary kind of plain suits, but the kind that are prettily trimmed and well made. They are not expensive, either. The line ranges this season from $10 to $25 and to get your suit early means a saving of from $7 to $9 on every garment you buy from us. We have them in all colors and white.

CAN'T SEE CHANCE FOR ANY BUT TAFT WAY ENQUIRER CORRESPONDENT HAS IT

How Figures Point Out Result of Republican Contest for Nomination.

The Cincinnati Enquirer's Columbus correspondent says:

Within a week the season for favorite sons in the presidential contest will have closed. After that the gunning will be in free territory. Today Pennsylvania chose her delegates, and there is a strong indication that they will be for Senator Philander C. Knox for one ballot at least. There are 30 delegates yet to be selected in New York and 4 in Illinois. The same presumption exists that the New York delegates should be for Governor Hughes and the Illinois delegates for Speaker Joseph G. Cannon. Since the bolt of Charles William Barnes, of Albany, and his colleagues from that district in New York from Hughes to Taft it is not safe to presume too far on the other representatives from that state. As stated in the beginning Secretary Taft has the favorite sons off his mind. Their states have spoken, and the worst is known. Reviewing the ground and summing up the results, the Ohio candidate should felicitate himself. The results show that he has broken into every state save Indiana and Pennsylvania, and not a single outsider has succeeded in getting a foothold in Ohio. In the Sixth district a second convention has selected two delegates for Senator Joseph Benson Foraker. To again presume, it is safe to say that as between Taft and any other candidate save the senator they would vote for the home product. Therefore it is entirely proper to say that the Taft goal line has not been crossed.

On the other hand, the secretary has secured delegates in New York as against Hughes; in Wisconsin as against Robert LaFollette, and in Illinois as against Speaker Joseph G. Cannon. It is no secret that in at least one Indiana delegation he is the second choice as against Vice President Charles W. Fairbanks. In only 4 states there have been instructions for candidates other than the Ohio man. That is to say, four states outside of those known to have favorite sons. In Missouri one district indorsed Hughes and another instructed for him, but both are contesting delegations. In the First district of Kentucky Fairbanks and Taft have each a set of delegates. In South Carolina, it is said Cannon is the choice of two colored delegates elected at a convention irregular even for that zig-zag country. In several of the southern states some colored delegates have been instructed to support Foraker, but, like the others, they are not scheduled as regular, having been chosen with precipitation and without rules.

The Situation. Up to the present 26 states, 1 territory (New Mexico) and the two insular possessions have selected delegates, and of this number only Delaware, Rhode Island, Porto Rico and Louisiana have not given instructions. As a matter of fact, all of the delegates named in Louisiana are irregular. That section of the party which will hold a convention on May 11, and as a result there will be two sets of delegates. Taft has delegates from every state and territorial possession save Indiana, and the list above given. While the Massachusetts convention yesterday did not instruct its delegates, or even express a preference, the platform declaration is quite satisfactory to the campaign managers. The admission that a majority of the delegates favored a Taft indorsement is accepted as a fair equivalent for instructions seeing that it stops the mouth of United States Senator Murray Crane.

SULLIVAN

WILL DOMINATE ILLINOIS DEMOCRATIC CONVENTION.

Bryan Not Pleased With Situation But Big Boss of State Will Be in Control.

Springfield, Ill., April 14.—The Democratic state convention, which is to be held here April 23, will be dominated by Roger C. Sullivan, as Democratic conventions have been for several years. This does not mean that William Jennings Bryan is in any danger of losing the Illinois delegation to the national convention, but it means that on all questions outside of the Bryan indorsement Sullivan will have things his own way. It was conceded by Sullivan some time ago that Bryan could have the Illinois delegation instructed for him, but he reserved the right to control the state convention on all other matters, including the naming of delegates. It looks now as if the Simon-pure Bryan men—the distinguished Democrats who have been lighting Roger Sullivan for several years—would be selected to stay at home, while Sullivan men will be put on the national delegation under instructions to vote for Mr. Bryan. This is exactly what Mr. Bryan protested against a few weeks ago, when he came here to address the State Federation of Bryan clubs. He declared then that only men who are sincerely for him should be allowed to go to the national convention; that he wanted all his enemies "in front of him;" that he "wanted no more fights with bushwhackers." But, according to present indications, these "bushwhackers" will be found in Denver in the Democratic national convention, voting for Bryan—at least once.

IMPORTANT DECISION.

Laelvson's Cremo, Dr. Fizz and Vio Decided Non-Intoxicated by the Court.

A case of much interest was tried last Tuesday before Judge Emery, where George Flekkli, of this city, was charged with selling intoxicating liquors, and the evidence showed he was selling Cremo, Dr. Fizz, and Vio, prepared by A. M. Laelvson & Co., and the proof all went to show these beverages were non-intoxicating, and the case was dismissed, as no violation of the law could be proven.

The decision of the court will act favorably with the sale of Dr. Fizz, Vio and Cremo, which are prepared and sold by A. M. Laelvson & Co., of this city.

No Sweethearting.

In Cornish chapels the invariable rule is for the men to sit on one side of the building and the women on the other. A visitor and his fiancée, who were staying in the district, went to the chapel, and just before the service began the young man was greatly astonished when the chapel steward, seeing that the couple were seated in the same pew, came over to him, and in an audible voice said: "Come on out of that, me son. We don't 'ave no sweetheartin' here."

Daily Thought.

"Today, whatever may annoy,
 The word for me is joy, just simply joy."

A REAL TRIBUTE.

Let no man go away from this place and state that I have uttered an unkind word of Mr. Taft. He is an able and distinguished American citizen, who has shown himself to be endowed with patriotism and statesmanship, and if he should be nominated, and my strength admits of it, I shall be found fighting his battles on the Big Bear while many of those who have trifled in the shade of their luxurious homes. Thus speaks United States Senator-elect W. O. Bradley, and his statement may be accepted with the degree of credibility accorded by a court of law to a declaration against interest. Secretary of War Taft certainly is a statesman, and just as certainly as Senator-elect Bradley made that statement, he will be called upon to fulfill his pledge to Taft, if he is alive. No one can question the senator's fighting qualities, and he is making a splendid showing for Fairbanks, considering that Mr. Bradley is the only man in Kentucky who favors Mr. Fairbanks.

THE END OF DEBOE.

Hon. A. S. Bennett, secretary, has at the direction of the chairman of the state central committee, called a meeting of the members in Louisville next Wednesday for the purpose of considering the appeal from the decision of Chairman W. J. Deboe in favor of Fairbanks delegates in the First district. The ex-senator seems to be up against it. What Chairman Ernst will do to him will be a plenty and it must be as pleasant as drawing "a per diem per day" for sleeping in senatorial halls.

The Kentucky State Journal is Democratic through and through, and while it may be depended upon to view the Republican factional situation with equanimity, it cannot be expected to do either side to the controversy exact justice. Yet, the truth is that Deboe deserves everything the State Journal predicts for him. No more revolutionary methods to entice a convention against the will of nearly two-thirds of the delegates and delegates, were ever adopted. If the plain meaning of the rules of the state central committee are to govern presiding officers of conventions, Deboe deliberately ignored the authority under which he was acting, and proceeded to work his own sweet will, anticipating the sending of a quorum before the opposition should desert him, thus giving him the advantage of presiding over a convention in fact, and casting on the opposition the odium of being bolters.

Deboe met his match. The convention was taken away from him, and he never for an instant presided over a body having a quorum. It took him and his sycophants two hours to find out just where they were in their own estimation. It remains for the state central committee Saturday day to show them where they are in the estimation of the good Republicans of the state.

The committee's rules say that in contests those delegations bearing credentials signed by the chairman of their county are to be seated on the preliminary organization. Deboe proceeded to throw out delegations favoring Taft, who bore such credentials, and to seat Fairbanks delegations. Eight of the thirteen county delegations bearing credentials signed by their county chairmen were for Taft. Eighty-seven of the 140 delegates having such credentials were for Taft.

The state central committee has one thing only to decide: Must a temporary chairman, acting contrary to the rules prescribed, or a majority of delegates, insisting on their right to be heard, prevail in a reorganization of Kentucky Republicans?

AN END TO NIGHT RIDING.

"The tide has turned and the night riders are on the run in Kentucky," says the Owensboro Messenger.

"With such fearless and brave circuit judges as W. M. Reed, who at Benton as well as Paducah, powerfully impressed his grand juries with the supreme necessity of ferreting out these outlaws, the dastardly work of these marauders will soon end. Indictments were quickly returned in Judge Reed's court and the indicted men promptly arrested and put in jail."

"The good effect of his aggressive course has already been felt in the adjoining county of Calloway, where eight or ten night riders have been arrested and jailed, pending the assembling of the grand jury. If Judge Cook will be as fearless and determined as Judge Reed, the disgrace that has been brought upon Calloway can be speedily wiped out."

"It is of interest to note that of the men arrested for night riding in Calloway county only one seems to be a representative citizen. One is an ex-convict, who served a term for counterfeiting; another is also an alleged counterfeiter; others are men who have been arrested before for criminal conduct; still others are wild and irresponsible young boys. They were not accused of visiting punishment upon farmers because of differences on the tobacco question. They were terrorizing their neighbors by night because of private spite and grievances. They were guilty of devilry for devilry's sake only—chiefly because they revelled in lawlessness."

"This is what night riding would lead to in any section. It would become a cloak for evildoers to vent their spite and spleen upon their better neighbors. But we believe—the time has now come in Kentucky when law-abiding men are fully aroused to the great danger of tolerating this form of disorder and they will firmly join in the determination to put a stop to it. Public sentiment has been awakened to the perils of the night riding practices and public sentiment will put a stop to it."

AIR SHIP

WHICH WILL BE SENT UP AT PADUCAH IS FLEET ONE.

Can Be Managed in the Wheel and On Return Trip to Let Is Promised.

The airship America, which is to make flights over Paducah on May 1 and 2, is shown making a trial flight at Chicago a few days ago. The America, which was built for the express purpose of being entered in the international races at Salt Lake City next June, is said to be one of the most modern and most scientific constructed airships in existence, and at the trial made faster time against a strong head of wind than any other ship on record. The America will make at least one return flight to the city from which it starts, this being guaranteed by J. W. Crawford, general contracting agent. Special extensions have been secured for the dates mentioned and large crowds of visitors are expected here that week. Capt. William Mattern, who invented and constructed the America, is one of the most noted and daring aeronaut navigators in the country, and has the distinction of being the only aeronaut who ever crossed Lake Michigan in an airship.

BARRY LLOYD TAKES DICK BRADIE TO VINCENNES

"Chief" Barry Lloyd and Dick Bradie left this morning for Vincennes, Ind., to play ball during the approaching season. Lloyd is manager of the Vincennes team in the Eastern Illinois league this year, and took Bradie, the star pitcher of the Paducah team, to serve the Eastern league batters with benders. Chief Lloyd has secured a good team, and Monday the team will start exhibition games. It is Lloyd's intention to extend the league to Paducah next year in a revival of the Kitty, and with a little support he thinks the league will be re-organized. Probably Evansville and Terre Haute will be dropped from the Central league, and if this be done a complete chain would be made.

Livery Barn Burns at Barlow.

The Moore livery barn burned at Barlow Friday night, causing a loss of several thousand dollars on the vehicles and feed, but all the live stock were saved. The loss was partially covered by insurance.

PROGRESS MADE IN THE HOUSE

Half of Navy Appropriations Are Disposed Of.

No Increased Salary Will Be Allowed Officers of Navy—Aldrich Bill Delayed Before House Committee.

BUREAU OF MINES APPROVED

Washington, April 14.—Unlooked for progress was made by the house in consideration of the naval appropriation bill. When it was laid aside for the day it had been one half disposed of, and the advocates of the four battleships proposition were aligning themselves in preparation for a fight on that subject.

Hope of the officers of the navy and marine corps for an increase in pay were dashed to the ground when on the point of order by Madden, of Illinois, the provision for such an increase was stricken out. On a similar point by Mudd, of Maryland, the amendment by Hartholt, of Missouri, prohibiting naval or marine funds accepting private employment in connection with civilian musicians, was lost.

The Senate.

The brief session of the senate was devoted to the transaction of routine business and the delivery of a speech by Scott, of West Virginia, chairman of the committee on buildings and grounds. Scott appealed for adequate appropriations for public buildings in this city, so that official business might be transacted with the greatest efficiency and economy.

The Aldrich Bill.

Washington, April 14.—The Aldrich financial bill as passed by the senate, was handled without gloves by speakers before the house committee on banking and currency, which is considering the measure. With the exception of Charles C. Glover, president of the Riggs National bank of this city, none of those who spoke favored the passage at this time of an emergency clause. Sentiment was not unanimous that if a permanent financial bill cannot become a law now, to attempt should be made to amend the present laws.

The speakers who followed Glover representing interests in Minneapolis, St. Paul, Boston, New York, Richmond, Va., took issue with his statement that financial conditions have not improved, and said they saw no signs of an impending panic. One of the sections most freely criticised was the LaFollette amendment providing that no national bank association shall invest any part of its funds in deposits in stocks or other securities of any corporations or associations any officer or director of which are officers or directors of such banking association.

The claim was made that this would drive the most desirable men of a community out of the directorate of the bank. An asset currency bill was favored by many speakers, and the appointment of a commission to investigate the whole subject and report to congress was generally favored. Hearings will be resumed tomorrow.

Former Officers Amended.

Washington, April 14.—Senator Foraker introduced an amendment to the railroad rate law passed June 29, 1906, providing that the commodities clause shall not apply to properties owned by railroads prior to the passage of the law.

Bureau of Mines.

Washington, April 14.—The house committee on mines and mining agreed to recommend the passage of the bill for the establishment of a bureau of mines in the department of the interior.

By the terms of the bill, it shall be the province and duty of the new bureau "to foster, promote and develop the mining industries of the United States; make a diligent investigation of the methods of mining; safety of miners; possible improvement of conditions under which mining operations are carried on; treatment of ores; use of explosives and electricity; prevention of accidents; mines of mineral products and markets for same; and of other matters pertinent to the aid of industries, and from time to time to make such public reports as the secretary of the investigations and information obtained with the recommendation of such bureau."

Provision is made for the government of the bureau, under the secretary of the interior, by a commission to be appointed by the president at an annual salary of $6,000.

Car Shot Off Track.

Rutler, Pa., April 14.—Sixteen workmen were injured, three probably fatally, at Evans City in a wreck on the Pittsburgh, Harbort & New Castle railway. Twenty-one men were riding in a coal car when the coupling broke and the car shot down a grade and jumped the track over an embankment.

Policeman Is Shot.

Chicago, April 14.—Policeman James Shea was found lying with a bullet hole through his lungs. It is not known whether he was murdered or committed suicide.

CHAPTER XVIII.

THAT evening I smoked in a splendid isolation while the men whispered apart. I had nothing to do but smoke and chew my cud, which was bitter. There could be no doubt, however I may have saved my face, that command had been taken from me by thatascal, Handy Solomon. I was in two minds as to whether or not I should attempt to warn Darrow or the doctor. Yet what could I say and against whom should I warn them? The men had grumbled, as men always do grumble in idleness, and had perhaps talked a little wildly, but that was nothing.

The only indisputable fact I could adduce was that I had allowed my authority to slip through my fingers. And adequately to expiate that I should have to confess that I was a writer and not a leader of men. I abandoned the unpleasant train of thought with a start of disgust, but it had led me to another. In the joy and uncertainty of things I had practically lost sight of the reason for my coming. With me it had always been more the adventure than the story. My writing was a byproduct, a utilization of what life offered me. I had set sail possessed by the sole idea of following out Dr. Schermerhorn's investigations, but the gradual development of affairs had ended by absorbing my every faculty. Now, east into an eddy by my change of fortune, the original idea loomed in my mind. I was out of the active government of affairs, with my hands on my hips, and my thoughts naturally turned with curiosity again to the laboratory in the valley.

Darrow's "shell dress" was again painting the sky. I had noticed them from time to time, always with increasing wonder. The men accepted them easily as only one of the unexplained phenomena of a galaxy's experience, but I had not as yet hit on a hypothesis that suited me. They were not allied to the aurora. They differed radically from the ordinary aurora's emanations and scarcely resembled any electrical displays I had ever seen. The night was cool. The stars bright. I resolved to investigate.

Without further delay I arose to my feet and set out into the darkness. I immediately one of the group detached himself from the fire and joined me. "Going for a little walk, sir?" asked Handy Solomon sweetly. "That's quite right and proper. Nothing like a little walk to get you fit and right for your bunk."

He held close to my elbow. We got just as far as the stockade in the bed of the arroyo. The lights we could make out now across the zenith, but owing to the precipitance of the cliffs and the rise of the arroyo bed it was impossible to see more. Handy Solomon felt the defenses carefully.

"A man would think, sir, it was a cannibal island," he observed. "All so tight and thicklike here. It would take a shill's guns to batter her down. A man might dig under these here two gate logs if no one was against him. Like to try it, sir?"

"No," I answered gruffly. From that time on I was virtually a prisoner, yet so carefully was my surveillance accomplished that I could place my finger on nothing definite. Some one always accompanied me on my walks, and in the evening I was herded as closely as my cattle.

Handy Solomon took the direction of affairs off my hands. You may be sure he set no very heavy tasks. The men cut a little wood, carried up a few pails of water. That was all.

Lacking incentive to stir about, they came to spend most of their time lying on their backs watching the sky. This in turn bred a languor which is the alchemist, most soul and temper destroying affair invented by the devil. They could not muster up energy enough to walk down the beach and back, and yet they were wearied to death of the lull. After a little they became irritable toward one another. Each suspected the other of doing less than he should. You who know men will realize what this meant.

The atmosphere of our camp became surly. I recognized the precursor of its becoming dangerous. One day on a walk in the hills I came on Thrackles and Pulz lying on their stomachs gazing down fixedly at Dr. Schermerhorn's camp. This was nothing extraordinary, but they started glibly to their feet when they saw me and made off, growling under their breaths. All this that I have told you so briefly took time. It was like eating through of men's spirits by that worst of corrosives, idleness. I conceive it unnecessary to weary you with the details.

The situation was as yet uneasy, but not alarming. One evening I overheard the beginning of an unusual plot to gain entrance to the valley. That was as far as detail went. I became convinced at last that I should in some way warn Percy Darrow.

"That seems a simple enough proposition, does it not? But if you will stop to think one moment of the difficulties of my position you will see that it was not as easy as it first appears. Darrow still visited us in the evening. The men never allowed me even the chance of private communication while he was with us. One or two took pains to stretch out between us. Twice I arose when the assistant did, resolved to accompany him, but way back. Both times men resolutely escorted us and as resolutely separated us from the opportunity of a single word apart. The crew never threatened me by word or look. But we understood each other. I was not permitted to row out to the laughing lass without escort. Therefore I never attempted to visit her again. The men were not anxious to do so. Their awe of the captain under them only too glad to escape his notice. That empty shell of a past reputation was my only hope. It shielded the arms and ammunition. As I look back on it now the period seems to me to be one of merely potential trouble. The men had not taken the pains to crystallize their ideas. I really think their compelling emotion was that of curiosity. They wanted to see. Is needed a definite impulse to change that desire to one of greed.

The impulse came from Percy Darrow and his idle talk of vodooks. As usual he was directing his remarks to the silent nigger.

"Vodooks?" he said. "Of course there are. Don't fool yourself for a minute on that. There are good ones and bad ones. You can tame them if you know how, and they will do anything you want them to." Pulz chuckled in his throat. "You don't believe it?" drawled the assistant, turning to him. "Well, it's so. You know that heavy box we are so careful of? Well, that's got a tame vodook in it."

The others laughed.

"What he like?" asked the bigger nigger.

"He's a fine vodook, with wavy arms and green eyes and red gloves." Watching narrowly its effect heaving off into one of the genuine old crowling vodooks, once so common down south, now so rarely heard. No one knows what the words mean—they are generally held to be charm words only—a magic gibberish. That the nigger staring across the fire like lightning, his face altered by terror, to seize Darrow by the shoulders.

"Doan you! Doan you!" he gasped, sinking the assistant violently back and forth. "Dat he King Vodook song! Dat him all de vodooks—ah!"

He stared wildly about in the darkness as though expecting to see the night thrashed. There was a moment of confusion, eager for any chance I missed under my breath: "Danger! Look out!"

I could not tell whether or not Darrow heard me. He left soon after the mention of the chest had focused the men's interest.

"Well," Pulz began, "we've been here or this spot for a long time."

"A year and five months," reckoned Thrackles.

"A man can do a lot in that time."

"It has been busy."

"They've been busy."

"Yes."

"Wonder what they've done?"

"There was no answer to this, and the son lawyer took a new tack.

"I suppose we're all getting double wages?"

"That's so."

"And that's say four hundred for us and Mr. Hagen here, I suppose the old man don't let the s-d-e-m-o-w go for nothing."

"Two hundred and fifty a month," said I and then would have had the words back.

"They cried out in prolonged astonishment."

"Seventeen months," pursued the beggar after a tremendous. He scratched with a stub of lead. "That makes over $13,000 since we've been out. How much do you suppose his outfit stands him?" he appealed to me.

"I'm sure I can't tell you," I replied shortly.

"Well, it's a pile of money anyway."

Nobody said anything for some time, "Wonder what they've done?" Pulz asked again.

"Something that pays big." Thrackles supplied the desired answer.

"Dat chis!" suggested Perdoma.

"Vodooks!" muttered the bigger.

"That's to scare us out," said Handy Solomon, with vast contempt. "That's what makes me sure it is the crest."

Pulz muttered some of the jargon of alchemy.

"That's it," approved Handy Solomon. "If we could get—"

"We wouldn't know how to use it," interrupted Pulz.

"The book"—said Thrackles.

"Well, the book"—asserted Pulz pugnauciously. "How do you know what it will be? It may be the philosopher's stone and it may be one of these other things. And then where'd we be?"

It was astounding to hear this nonsense bandied about so seriously. And yet they more than half believed, for they were deep sea men of the old school, and this was in print. Thrackles voiced approximately the general attitude.

"Philosopher's stone or not, something's up. The old boy took too good care of that box, and he's spending too much money to be doing it for his health."

"You know what I think?" smiled Perdoma. "He make d'mon's. He say dat."

The nigger had entered one of his black, brooding moods from which these men expected oracles.

"Get him chis," he muttered. "I see him full-full of d'mon's."

They listened to him with vast respect and were visibly impressed. So deep was the sense of awe that Handy Solomon unbent enough to whisper to me:

"I don't take any stock in the nigger's talk ordinarily. He's a fool nigger. But when his eye looks like that then you want to listen close. He sees things then. Lots of times he's seen things. Even last year—the Oyami—he told about her three days ahead. That's why we were so ready for her," he chuckled.

JOHN A. WILLIAMS DIED LAST NIGHT

Well Known Mail Carrier Succumbs to Tuberculosis

Mrs. Sarah Phineas Iverlett Snow Dies After Long Illness at Her Home.

D. C. ADAMS OF OHIO STREET

Mr. John Allard Williams, the popular mail carrier, died last night at 8:30 o'clock at the residence of his sister, Mrs. Emma Allison, 829 Broadway, after a lingering illness of consumption. It has been four months, since Mr. Williams was able to attend to his duties, and for four weeks he has been confined to his bed.

Mr. Williams was born in Paducah 28 years ago, and lived here all his life. After graduating from the schools he was associated with Mr. Joseph Biederman in business and later with John Van Cullin and Lloyd W. Robertson. In 1893 he became a mail carrier and made the department a faithful and efficient employee.

Mrs. Lydia Williams, his mother, survives, and he leaves one brother, Mr. Percy Williams, of Cairo. He was a member of the Masons and of the United States Letter Carriers' association. Mr. Williams carried several policies of insurance on his life. He was a quiet and unassuming man, but nevertheless popular with a wide range of friends.

The funeral service will be held tomorrow afternoon at the residence, the Rev. David C. Wright officiating. The burial will be held in Oak Grove, the Masons having charge of the ceremonies.

Mrs. Sarah Snow.

Mrs. Sarah Phineas Iverlett Snow, 68 years old, died this morning at 4 o'clock at her residence, 627 South Sixth street, after a long illness. Mrs. Snow was born in Paris, France, but she had resided in Paducah since she was 30 years old. Mrs. Snow was married to Fred Iverlett and after his death, several years ago, she was married to Harvey Snow. She leaves two daughters, Miss May Iverlett and Mrs. J. E. Morgan, and two sons, Fred and Charles Iverlett, employees of Louis Clark's grocery. Mrs. Clara Waddy, of Smithland, is a sister and Leo Lashera, of Waverly, Tenn., is her brother. Mrs. Snow was a well liked woman and had many friends, who grieve over her death. The funeral will be held tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 o'clock with burial in Oak Grove cemetery. The Rev. M. E. Dodd will preach the funeral.

D. C. Adams.

Mr. D. C. Adams, 1232 Ohio street, aged 60 years, died this morning at 4:45 o'clock of complications after a long illness. Mr. Adams leaves the following children: E. F. Adams, a clerk at the postoffice. He also leaves five daughters: Mrs. Al Wyatt, Mrs. Ernest Griffith, Mrs. Lizzie Hobbs, Mrs. Minnie Hands. The funeral procession will leave the home tomorrow morning at 8 o'clock and the burial will take place at 12 o'clock at Mt. Pleasant cemetery, in Graves county.

LUTTRELL DENIES

SAYS REPORT FROM MURRAY IS ABSOLUTELY FALSE.

Well Known McCracken County Man Has Not Received Any Third Night Rider Notice.

In a telephone message to The Sun this afternoon Mr. Theodore Luttrell branded as absolutely false, the story sent out from Murray yesterday that he had received a third warning from the night riders, who left a knot of rope at his gate and the warning. "This is your last message. If you do not obey orders you will get this. We mean business," signed "Night Riders."

The article in the Times continued as follows:

"After receiving the third threat Luttrell sent his wife and child to a relative's house and since then he has been boarding in Paducah. Prominent farmers have advised him to move, stating they have heard a great deal of talk and believed the notes came from determined men."

"Luttrell has a fine farm of forty acres, and a cozy little home completed but a short time ago. He says as soon as he can sell he will leave the state. Mr. Luttrell will move to Tennessee."

Mr. Luttrell says that the only notices he has received have been printed in The Sun, and that the third one was never received.

"I have stayed at home almost every night for the last week and will stay here unless I decide to move to Mississippi, where I have on a deal for a tract of timber land for over a year. I went there to look at the property early last fall."

Easter is the prescribed time to break away from your old winter habits.

Here are the finest spring habits that put one in tune with the customs and costumes of the day.

IN SOCIAL CIRCLES

Wedding of Miss Scott and Mr. Bowley Will Be a Home Ceremony With Reception.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank L. Scott have issued invitations to the marriage ceremony and wedding reception of their daughter, Miss Marjorie Scott, and Mr. Edwin Elmore Bowley, on Wednesday evening, April 29, at the Scott home, 333 North Ninth street. The marriage will take place at 9 o'clock and the reception is from 9:30 until 11 o'clock. The engagement of Miss Scott to Mr. Bowley was announced several weeks ago.

Miss Scott is one of the most popular of a coterie of charming girls who made their debut winter before last. Her gracious manner and winsome personality have easily emphasized her hold upon a social life that was hers by right of family prominence. She is the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank L. Scott and is a strikingly handsome girl of superior mentality. She was graduated with honors from notable old Monticello Seminary at Godfrey, Illinois. A charter member and officer of the Kappa Kappa Gamma, a leading literary club of the younger set of girls, and prominent in other club work, Miss Scott will be a distinct loss to Paducah club and social life.

Mr. Bowley is a leading young business man and capitalist of Fort Worth, Texas, and belongs to a prominent family of that city. He is the owner of the Anchor Roller Mills, a large flouring mill of Fort Worth and is prominently identified with a number of private corporations. Mr. Bowley's cordial, agreeable manner won him many friends during a recent visit to Paducah.

Miss Scott and Mr. Bowley met when Miss Scott was the guest of her school friend, Miss Anne Stripling, of Fort Worth.

Of Interest Here.

Today's Commercial Appeal says: "In honor of Miss Mabel Matland, the Memphis girl who a short time ago was booked over the Orpheum circuit of theaters, and who made her Memphis debut last night, a party of sixteen occupied two boxes at the Orpheum theater. The party was given by Jacob Wagoner and was attended by Mrs. P. C. Lovelace, Mr. and Mrs. C. Leland, Miss Leland of Alabama, Parlee Fleming, Mr. and Mrs. Renbert, Dr. and Mrs. Floyd Ferguson, of Dyerburg, parents of Miss Matland, Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Calcutt, Mr. and Mrs. Dorsey White and Mr. and Mrs. Roger Woolson. When Miss Matland made her appearance on the stage she was presented with two handsome floral pieces, one of which nearly hid her from view and had to be carried off the stage by employees."

Miss Matland who was Miss Daisy Ferguson, of Dyerburg, Tenn., gave a recital here several years ago for the benefit of the Ramsey society of the Methodist church. She has a number of friends in Paducah.

Delphi Club.

The Delphi club held an interesting session this morning at the Carnegie library. The program was a varied one. "Public Instruction—El Azhar," was discussed very competently by Mrs. Mildred Davis. "The Khedives and Egyptian Finances" was discussed by Mrs. George Flournoy. "Abbas II, His Family Life and Possessions" was agreeably sketched by Mrs. James Campbell Flournoy. "Egypt's Obelisks" was entertainingly presented by Miss Mattie Fowler.

REVIVALS

IN PROGRESS AT TWO METHODIST CHURCHES.

Soul-Winning Sermons Being Preached While Attendance and Interest Are Increasing Daily.

A decided increase in attendance was noticeable last evening at the revival services now in progress at the Broadway Methodist church. Hereafter the night services will be held in the auditorium of the church, which was comfortably filled last night. Dr. Sullivan preached a strong and pertinent sermon based on the text "Knowing the Terror of the Lord We Persevere" (1 Peter 3:15). The points made were forcible and logical and he was followed with close attention. The singing was spirited and the choir was accompanied by Mr. Hamberg, of the Third Street Methodist church on the horn. A number of the members of the city were in the congregation.

Dr. Sullivan's topic for tonight is "Christ and the Method of His Revival." This afternoon at 3:30 o'clock he speaks on "Difficulties in the Home for Religious Life." The public is cordially welcome at both services.

Mechanicsburg Revival.

Souls are being saved nightly at the Mechanicsburg Methodist church where the Rev. J. H. Kendall is holding a revival. Meetings are held at 2 and 7:30 o'clock and the attendance and interest are increasing.

The Baptists.

Two splendid services were held yesterday at the First Baptist church in the series of Sunday school lectures, that will be given this week. Dr. H. Boyce Taylor, of Murray, preached two sermons relating to the work on Sunday school, and last night the church was crowded. This afternoon the Rev. W. J. Mahoney, secretary of the state mission board of Kentucky, spoke on "The Teacher Preparing the Lesson." This evening at 8 o'clock his subject will be: "At the Feet of the Master Teacher."

Tomorrow afternoon Dr. Mahoney will speak on "The Evangelistic Spirit in the Sunday School." Dr. Calvin M. Thompson, of Louisville, may not arrive in time Friday evening to speak, but if he does not, the Rev. J. D. Maddox, of Owensboro, secretary of the Ministerial association, will fill the pulpit.

LEWIS, BITTEN BY MAD WOLF, DIES AT CHAFFEE.

Chaffee, Mo., April 14.—Herbert Lewis, who was bitten by a mad wolf on February 23, died here. The wolf, afflicted with rabies, came out of the swamp and ran through the streets here at the time, biting Lewis, Richard Stokes and James Tucker. All three immediately went to St. Louis for treatment. Lewis returned home against the advice of the physicians, without having received full treatment. Stokes and Tucker, who remained for full treatment, are well. Lewis was 21 years old and was employed in the Frisco round house.

Fire burned the foot out of a chimney last night at 8:30 o'clock of the residence of Mr. John Rock, 224 North Sixth street. The fire department was called, but no damage was done by the blaze, which was soon extinguished.

NEWS OF COURTS

In County Court.

The will of the late Herman Hammer was entered for probate in the county court. It provides that after his daughters, Laura, Lela and Minnie Hammer are paid $1,000 each, when they are 21 years old, or sooner if they marry, the remainder of his estate is to go to his wife, who is made executrix of the estate. Should the wife marry again the estate is to be divided among his daughters equally. Mrs. Hammer is to consent to the decedent's brother, before transacting important business. The will was dated March 26, 1918, and witnessed by W. H. Rotterger and Henry Meyer.

No Indictments.

The grand jury yesterday reported they would return no indictments against Henry Howkamp and Will Husbands for breaking up the "Old Terrell" parade at Fourth street and Broadway during Christmas time, and recommended that the men be dismissed from their bonds.

Fred Wyatt, a Nashville youth, was indicted for robbing Dan Ligon of 25 cents.

Marriage Licenses.

C. R. Turner and Amelia Hutchison.

Claude Armstrong and Emma Ragland.

W. S. Smith and Addie Logan.

In Police Court.

The docket today was: Drunk—Jim Jones, colored, $1 and costs. Breach of peace—Doc Fields, $5 and no costs. Molestation—John Rodgers, continued until April 27. Molestation—John Morrow, continued until April 27. Carrying concealed a deadly weapon—John Morrow, continued until April 27. Breach of peace—Jim White, $50 and costs. Housebreaking—Miss Scott and George Edwards, colored, held to grand jury and bond fixed at $300 each.

In Circuit Court.

Suit for divorce was filed today by A. L. Piper against Oale Piper. The couple were married in McCracken county in 1901.

A suit was filed in circuit court by Henry Temple against Tim Stevenson asking for a settlement of the estate of Richard Stevenson.

Old Housebreaking Charge.

After a year's freedom Ida Scott and George Edwards, colored, were arrested for housebreaking. Last year it is alleged the pair broke into the drug store of Iverson & Wallace, Seventh and Washington streets, by placing a section of fence against the rear window. Both were suspected at the time, but recently Detectives Gairbairn and Halley turned up new evidence, and yesterday afternoon Patrolmen Singery and Hession nabbed the pair and locked them up. Both were held over this morning in police court and their bonds were fixed at $300 each.

Guardian Reappointed.

In order to remove any doubt as to being legally appointed guardian of Rosa Ingram and Cora Jones, the girls injured in the accident at the basket factory recently, J. W. Williams, who had been appointed on an interim basis, resigned that appointment this morning and was again made guardian on the motion of the girls, who were present. It is understood that the claim for damages against the basket factory and railroad company will be amicably settled without suit being brought.

BULGARIANS DESTITUTE.

Report Made to Governor Deussen on Granite City, Ill.

Springfield, Ill., April 14.—Colonel Richard J. Shand, of the adjutant general's office reported to Governor Deussen on the condition of 1500 Bulgarians, Roumanians and Macedonians, a settlement at Granite City.

There are 3,000 men at the settlement and of this number half have come to this country since last August, and failing to find employment, are destitute. A fund is being issued for their relief.

Notes.

Lighting Shoemaking.

A story of lightning-like rapidity in shoemaking is told by a London paper. It appeared that while the German Emperor was in England a London shoe firm received an order for a pair of shoes for the Imperial feet. A messenger was dispatched early in the morning with several pairs of the highest priced footwear, none of which suited Wilhelm. An offer to make a pair of shoes was accepted by the Kaiser's Adjutant, and on a telephone message to the factory in London two men were put to work. At 1:20 o'clock in the afternoon the royal boots were completed and shipped to the German monarch. The shoes, which, report says, fitted perfectly, were worn by his majesty the same evening. The time consumed in making them was two hours and thirty minutes.

The high place that John Burns, President of the local London Government Board, has assumed in the estimation of the public, is illustrated by the fact the Spectator, a most conservative weekly newspaper, seriously suggests him for the highest post in the cabinet, namely, the chancellorship of the exchequer, in the event of Mr. Asquith finding it necessary to resign the chancellorship to become Premier.

MODERN METHODS OF DETECTIVES

The modern detective of late has been compared to a keen physician. From a few apparent tokens—a rag, a button, a handkerchief, a footprint—if he is an observer, and is endowed with the gifts necessary to his profession, he will often be able to reconstruct all the different events connected with a drama and discover the culprit—just as an able doctor manages to give the right diagnosis from a few exterior signs.

The famous detectives invented by Garbohan, Conan Doyle and Edgar Poe are types to be found in real life.

Some years ago at Lyons a woman was found strangled. She bore on her neck five finger marks—four on the left and one on the right which was broader and shorter.

The detective was struck by the irregular disposition of these marks, and tried to apply his own fingers to them. He found it impossible, without folding his forefinger in a peculiar way, and thus inferred that the murderer had an ill-shaped finger.

The fact made his search for the criminal easier. The man was discovered; his forefinger had been injured in an accident. He confessed his guilt.

In a small Belgian village a detective found near the body of the victim a cylinder of cigarette ash. The detective, who knew a good deal about tobacco, was able to convince himself that the ash came from Algerian tobacco.

This article being rare in that remote village, he inquired from the tobacconist; his forefinger had been injured in an accident. He confessed his guilt.

Two hours later the presumed murderer was arrested, the packet of cigarettes being found in his pocket.

Appetite for Crabs

THE codfish has an enormous appetite for shell-fish, crabs and lobsters. He eats them alive and he eats them raw. He eats them all without indigestion and grows fat. He has a powerful liver.

arettes being found in his pocket.

The methods employed by criminals have "improved." They have become scientific, most scientific. The criminal of today handles chloroform, opium, morphine with all the cleverness of a physician.

Again, the tools used by the modern jailbirds are unrivaled masterpieces. One amazing proof of the scientific knowledge of the modern criminal and his keenness in keeping abreast of modern discoveries lies in the following fact: Recently in Marseilles the huge safe of a bank was rapidly opened by means of a complicated apparatus which had only been invented by a prominent engineer ten months previously.

But the detective also avails himself of scientific discovery. Formerly, in cases of forgery, for instance, a drop of water was placed on the forged words. If the paper had been scratched and its size removed, the water was immediately sucked in; if the paper had not been scratched the drop remained for a while on top. This process was primitive, and spoiled the document.

Nowadays the suspicious paper is photographed, and on the proofs the marks of scratching are easily detected by clear differences in the color. Photography is used also in the case of forgeries made by means of chemicals.

When a heap of burnt documents is found in the fireplace, thin sheets of glass are inserted between the burnt papers. As soon as one sheet is on the glass it is rendered less brittle by means of a special liquid. Process is repeated with every sheet, and after a few hours all the documents are easily read.

A process formerly used for the classification of bloodstains consisted in examining them under the microscope, and from the appearance of the red globules the investigation would draw their conclusions as to the nature of the blood. Unfortunately this examination gave no result when the bloodstains were not recent.—Chicago Tribune.

Passenger Travel By Water.

It is often said that the palmy days of travel by river are over, but this remark applies only temporarily to certain streams that do not at this time afford the necessary conditions. Taking the world as a whole, there is more journeying by water than ever before. The figures for last year's passenger traffic on the lakes show that 7,500,000 passengers were carried out of Detroit by boat, 1,900,000 from Chicago, 530,000 from Milwaukee, over 400,000 each from Port Huron, Grand Haven and Marquette, with smaller ports getting a proportionate share. One feature to be noted is the exceptional safety of lake travel. Not a life was lost among the 7,500,000 persons who left Detroit by boat, and the passenger casualties were few anywhere on the lakes. The vessels have increased in size until they are almost in the class of ocean liners. They offer roomy berths, cabins, and promenade decks, with good fare on various plans, and the public comfort and enjoyment are carefully studied. Between some of the chief lake cities excursion steamers of the largest size run daily during the heated period as a means of refreshment to the crowded population, keeping in motion on the water as long a time as possible.

Turning to the ocean the tide of passenger travel is seen to be increasing at an unexampled rate. Over 2,500,000 persons crossed the Atlantic in 1907 between the United States and other countries. Ships go on increasing in size and speed. More than 600 knots a day is now frequently made, which approaches the average schedule of railway express trains, with greater freedom and restfulness. The rate competition last year reduced the cost of sea travel to a new minimum. A steerage passenger can go at this time from New York to Genoa for $12, of about one-third of a cent a mile. Millions of travelers enable the leading steamship companies to carry their construction enterprises to lengths hitherto unknown. Some of the latest liners designed are to be 1,000 long and supplied with the most powerful known machinery. The Atlantic can be spanned in five or six days with a luxury equal to that on shore. When the palmy days of water travel are mentioned the whole field should be considered, in which case the present will be seen to

AYER'S HAIR VIGOR

How we stretch out larger and larger; but its details are fading and becoming blurred. High hills have changed to flat surfaces. A river winds and bends its way through the drier colors like a tangled ribbon of silver. A small lake sparkles in the sunshine, giving life and fire to the sober shades about it; but as we look it suddenly disappears from sight, apparently swallowed up before our eyes. Then we realize that it has plunged into a tunnel, through a hill which to us seems only a flat surface; now it appears again, coming out on the other side.

So the wonderful scenes come and go, ever changing, but ever grand and inspiring—scenes that come back to us real and vivid, that we may live them over again in later days. The cloud effects are at times the most beautiful of all. After having sailed up through these into the dazzling sunlight, we see the snowy billows just below our car, the shadow of our balloon falling upon their white surface. This shadow is often surrounded by a halo of rainbow colors of rare beauty. At such times one has the feeling of having left earth completely, and to have reached some other planet. The white mounds just below seem to be quite solid, and look as though one might step out of the balloon and take a stroll over them, if one only had snow-shoes. The air is wonderfully clear and pure, and gives one a feeling of exhilaration much greater than that enjoyed in mountain-climbing. Is it, then, surprising that ballooning is rapidly becoming a popular sport?—March Century.

It's harder to remember some things than it is to forget others.

THE JOYS OF AIR SAILING.

Wonderful Scenes Beheld From Decks of Gumbe Skyscrapers.

Floating softly up into the blue ocean of air, watching the earth sink slowly away beneath us and fade and change quietly to an immense map spread before our wondering eyes—such are the first impressions of balloon voyagers. The noisy shouts of those who come to wish us "bon voyage," become fainter and fainter until absolute quiet reigns about us. It is so still that the ticking of the clock in the bazaar is heard noisily counting the seconds as it traces the of our upward flight across the sheet. Meanwhile the earth-map down be

LADY WOOLSTON NOW SLENDER.

On her last visit to New York the charming, titled English kinswoman of the Van Horn Mentors of Rhode Island was quite plump—even fat—yes, downright fat. This visit she is beautifully slender, but neither exercising nor dieting did it, she says.

Here is her advice to her American cousins, who would safely and quickly take off a pound or so of fat a day and keep it off as desired:

Take a teaspoonful after meals and at bedtime of this simple trio of home remedies: One-half ounce Marsh-mallow, one-half ounce Fluid Extract Cascara Aromatic and three and one-half ounces Syrup Simplex. These articles cost little, may be obtained at any drug store, and can be taken at home by any one.

"There isn't a wrinkle nor a stomach ache in a barrelful," concluded her ladyship. That is, she meant all that, though her language was much more elegant of course.

STATEMENTS FROM PROMINENT PEOPLE IN VARIOUS CITIES

A number of statements from prominent people located in various cities where the widespread discussion over L. T. Cooper's new theory regarding the human stomach has recently waged, give an idea of the intense interest the young man has aroused during the past year. The statements are as follows:

Mr. C. D. Mitchell, 2112 Avenue C, Birmingham, Ala., has this to say with regard to his belief in Cooper's medicine: "I have been troubled with indigestion and stomach trouble for the past year. I had heartburn, bloating after eating, gas on stomach and bowels, palpitation of the heart, pain in the lower part of my back, and various other symptoms, and was a victim of much distress. I tried many remedies, but received little or no benefit from them. I was advised to try the Cooper preparations, and did so. In one week's time I was improved wonderfully—the first relief I had been able to obtain. Mr. Cooper's medicine does all he claims for it."

Mr. J. O. Spradling, of 705 South Tejon street, Colorado Springs, Col., says: "I was troubled with indigestion for two years. It caused me a great deal of suffering and misery. I did not dare to eat meat at all and everything I did eat soured on my stomach. I tried various remedies, but found no relief. Three months ago I started taking Cooper's New Discovery, and after using the contents of three bottles I was entirely cured. I can now eat and relish anything that my appetite craves. The New Discovery is truly a great stomach medicine."

Mr. William Codder, of 408 Graves street, Syracuse, N. Y., is very strong in his expression of belief in the new medicine, and has the following to say on this subject: "I have suffered from catarrh of the nose and throat for four years. It must have been communicated to my stomach, for all this time my stomach has given me a great deal of trouble, and caused me much pain and suffering. My stomach was often sour, and my food did not digest. I was bothered by a continual desire to spit, and there was a constant dropping of mucus into the throat."

"The first relief I have been able to obtain is from Cooper's New Discovery, which I have been taking for about a week. My catarrhal condition has been greatly improved and my stomach is almost well. Mr. Cooper's medicine has benefited me more than anything I have ever used."

These statements are from reliable citizens in various communities who have tried these celebrated medicines. We sell them and will gladly explain their nature to any one interested.—W. B. McPherson.

History of the Thermometer.

Before the seventeenth century men could only judge of the amount of heat prevailing at any place by their personal sensations, and could only speak of the weather in an indefinite way as very hot, cold or very cold. In that century several attempts were made by scientific experimenters by means of tubes containing oil, spirits of wine and other substances to establish a satisfactory means of measuring heat, but none of them proved successful. Even Sir Isaac Newton, who applied his great mind to this work, and also the noted astronomer, Halley, failed in their attempts to produce a heat measure.

It was reserved to Gabriel Fahrenheit, an obscure and poor man, a native of Danzig, to give to the world the instrument which has proved to be so serviceable to mankind. He had failed in business as a merchant, and, having a taste for mechanics and chemistry, began a series of experiments for the production of thermometers. At first he made these instruments with alcohol, but soon became convinced that the semi-solid mercury was the more suitable article to use in the glass tube.

Fahrenheit had removed from Danzig to Amsterdam, and there, about the year 1720, he made the mercury thermometer, which has ever since been fashioned much like the original.

The basis of his plan was to mark on the tube two points, respectively, at which water is condensed and boiled, and to graduate the space between. He began with an arbitrary marking, beginning with 32 degrees, because he found that the mercury descended 32 degrees more before coming to what he thought the extreme cold resulting from a mixture of ice, water and sal ammoniac. In 1724 he published a distinct treatise on the subject of his experiments and the conclusions that had resulted therefrom.

Celsius, of Stockholm, soon after suggested the more rational graduation of 100 degrees between freezing and boiling point. This was the centigrade thermometer. It was proposed another graduation, which has been accepted by the French, but by far the largest part of the civilized world Fahrenheit's scale has been accepted and used, with 32 degrees as freezing, 55 degrees as temperate, 96 degrees as blood heat and 212 degrees as boiling point.

It is true that the zero of Fahrenheit's scale is a selection, since it does not mark the extreme to which heat can be abstracted. This little blemish, however, does not seem to have been of any practical consequence.—Washington Herald.

TEACHER "ON HER MUSCLE"

Punishes an Ambeyer and Hands Him to Police.

According to a New York special to the Philadelphia Inquirer, Miss Mary H. Hynes, a teacher in Public School No. 149, proved her ability to protect herself from masher and boys, when she chased, caught and thrashed Abraham Koenig and then turned him over to a policeman.

One day last week, nearing her home, several of Miss Hynes' tormentors appeared and shouted names at her. Unable to endure the insult, Miss Hynes caught one of the young men and gave him a sound thrashing. He was larger and stronger than the teacher, but his size did not deter her from punishing him until he begged for mercy.

With two other teachers, one of whom was Miss Lillie Herman, Miss Hynes left the schoolhouse the second time and started for her home. While the three were passing through Sutter avenue a band of young men and boys shouted names at them from the other side of the street.

With Miss Hynes in the lead the teachers started across the street toward their annoyers.

After a run of several blocks they overtook Abraham Koenig. He protested his innocence and fought to get away, but Miss Hynes thrashed and held him until the arrival of a policeman.

YOUNG MOTHERS

A mother who is in good physical condition transmits to her child the blessing of a good constitution; sickly, ailing mothers, the reverse.

The tiny babe brings to her a living responsibility. At such a time great care cannot be taken to build up the mother's general constitution, and restore her feminine system to a healthy, normal condition. The greatest assistance that any woman can have in accomplishing this all-important work is

LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S VEGETABLE COMPOUND
Mrs. M. Gilmer, of West Union, S. C., writes to Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass.

"I was greatly run down in health, suffering from a weakness peculiar to my sex. I began to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I was not only restored to health but am the proud mother of a fine baby girl. I wish every sick and ailing woman would give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial."

Mrs. Paul Oliver, of St. Martinville, La., writes to Mrs. Pinkham: "For years I suffered from the worst form of female troubles, and the doctor said I could not get well without an operation. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound restored me to perfect health, and I have the sweetest little baby girl I will ever cherish. I praise Lydia E. Pinkham's medicine."

LINGUISTIC TRANCE.

Mahe Girl Speaks Several Dead Languages Under Spell.

Portland, Me., April 11.—Scientists all over New England are interested in the remarkable trances or autohypnotism of Winifred Knight, 11 years old. In her trances, which are not like those of a person who lies in a comatose condition, the child speaks in Swedish, Hebrew, Sanskrit, Greek, Latin, French, Spanish and Italian.

When not in a trance she can speak nothing but English, and would not be able to tell one dead language from another.

Some of her most remarkable sentences in a recent trance were:

In Hebrew, "He is coming soon."

In Sanskrit, "He will appear."

The child is the daughter of an invalid mother. She has had little of the pleasures of childhood and much of the cares of a woman of years in nursing and in housework. The manifestations have occurred in the town of Newburg, about twenty miles from Bangor. The child goes into a sleep, but she says she knows all that goes on around her.

HIGH PRICED MARE GOES TO GOVERNMENT FARM.

The U. S. government has established two breeding farms to perfect and perpetuate a type of fine horses of the best of American blood, and Kentucky, of course, must supply largely the foundation stock. From "Farmers' Home Journal" of April 11th we note the following: "Mr. A. C. Jones, of North Middleton, Ky., sold to the United States government this week, the saddle bred mare, 'Barthenia McChord,' by Chester Dare, dam by Peavine, and in foal by Bon-ben King, for $1,000. It seems that this cross of the Denmark mares on the Harbison chief family is as popular with 'Uncle Sam' as with others."

The above fine mare is a sister in blood to Lang's "Rebel Dare," owned in McCracken county.

Room in the South.

There are 27,000,000 acres of arable land in the state of Louisiana and only 6,000,000 of these acres are under cultivation. The secretary of the board of immigration of that state has issued an address to would-be settlers informing them that Louisiana planters with large tracts of land "stand ready and willing to aid every man who is willing to help himself and sell arms on ten years' credit." This invitation is supplemented by the state board of immigration with the statement that they are now trying to cause immigration to the state "by securing men who are willing to farm on shares." The further promise is made that "houses are provided for families who go. We furnish each family with a horse or mule, seed to plant crops and ground and garden trucking implements."

This ought to be a very liberal and inviting offer to the thousands of unemployed in the northern state.—Charleston News and Courier.

Try the Sun for Job Work.

WOMEN ARE "POOR LOSERS."

But They Speculate to Large Degree in Wall Street.

The number of women speculators, says a writer in the World Today, is amazingly large—much larger than even the Wall street habitué would imagine. It is not commonly known, but it is a fact, that many brokerage houses maintain private rooms for their women customers, with more often than not private entrances. There are several reasons for this. One is that many women who speculate do so secretly, without the knowledge of their family, their relatives or their friends. Another reason is that the broker himself desires it, principally, he is confessed, because he is anxious that if there be any "secesses" they shall be private ones, "far from the maddening crowd's ignominious strife"—and sight. For truth compels the statement that women are poorer losers than men. It is the testimony of conservative brokers that a woman gambler is much more of a gambler than a man—much more, that is, in absorbing tenaciousness and almost vindictiveness. She seems to be carried out of and beyond herself to a degree that becomes uncomfortably disquieting when she loses. Even when she is a winner, and, as I have said, the proportion of winners to losers among women is about one to twenty; there seems to be in her satisfaction a kind of maliciousness that is not good to see.

Tickets From Newspapers.

That newspapers are constantly left on the seats in railway trains nobody with the slightest power of observation need be told. On the other hand, few people would suppose that these discarded papers could prove of any value to the company controlling the line. But this is essentially the age for the utilization of waste products and great corporations are quick to own any labor-saving device.

Probably the strangest development in this direction would appear to be that now prevailing in Belgium. Upon the Government railway systems newspapers left in the trains are the property of the Nation, to be used by it for the manufacture of railway tickets. The papers are carefully collected and sent to the head depot where they are reduced to pulp and a special variety of cardboard for ticket purposes is prepared.

Some idea of the amount of raw material readily available to the railway authorities from this source may be gathered from the fact that the accumulation of discarded newspapers upon the whole network of Government railways aggregates about 700 pounds per day, representing over two tons per annum. The saving from this source alone, which is no mean one, can readily be calculated.—Chicago Tribune.

THE TRUTH ABOUT KIDNEY TROUBLE.

(Physic Weakness.)
When there is a pale, pasty complexion that persists in spite of diet and careful living, or where there is physical weakness that likewise resists the usual treatment, the kidneys are to be suspected.

Food often does people with kidney disease very little good.

Instead of storing in the system the albumen, starches and sugars that our food releases the inflamed kidneys deflect them, and tests disclose them in the eliminations unused. The patient grows weaker and weaker, and as the kidneys are not sensitive there is usually no pain and there appears to be no cause for the continued weakness. In such cases a test for albumen may disclose a strong percentage of the strength of the food in the eliminations unused, but, as albumen can not be seen and is only disclosed through chemical tests, the patient, unless he is in the hands of a physician, often has no line on his difficulty, and thousands of such cases grow unwittingly into the supposed chronic, incurable stage.

In these cases Fulton's Renal Compound acts definitely, but quite slowly for the inflammation is usually of considerable standing and permanence. As in the other cases of inflammation of the kidneys Medical Works have nothing but diet and symptomatic treatment, both of which have proven futile in these chronic cases.

As Fulton's Renal Compound reduces the inflammation, the albumen will be found to be gradually decreasing and recovery slow but definite in about 87 per cent of all cases.

The Reason.
It was Washington's birthday, and the minister was making a patriotic speech to the children of the second grade.

"Now, children," he said, "when I arose this morning the flags were waving and the houses were draped with bunting. What was that done for?"

"Washington's birthday," answered a youngster.

"Yes," said the minister, "but last month I, too, had a birthday, but no flags were flying that day, and you did not even know I had a birthday. Why was that?"

"Because," said an urchin, "Washington never told a lie."—Philadelphia Ledger.

MANY WITNESSES IN FEDERAL COURT

Night Rider Cases Will Bring 150 to City.

Docket for Term Beginning Next Monday is Completed and All is Ready.

CASES ASSIGNED FOR TRIAL.

Paducah will be crowded when federal court convenes next week, as 150 witnesses in the damage suits instituted by Robert H. and Mary Hollorell against alleged night riders in Caldwell county are securing quarters in the city.

The docket for the April term of the federal court shows an unusually large number of cases to be disposed of, the criminal docket especially being lengthy, while a number of defendants that have been held to answer to the grand jury are in jail or on bond and their cases will be added to the trial docket as soon as the grand jury reports indictments. The case of the East Tennessee Telephone company against the city of Paducah is the first on the equity docket and probably will be disposed of.

The Hollowell damage suits growing out of the night rider raid at Princeton may be tried at this term. The docket is as follows:

Circuit Court Equity.
East Tennessee Telephone company vs. City of Paducah.

George A. Kellogg vs. Mergenthaler-Horton-Basket company.
Langenbach & Morton vs. C. S. Knight, et al.

Frank Foster, et al., vs. Edward S. Jordan and wife.

District Court Equity.

Only One Ticket.

"Alert?" said Senator Hopkins of Illinois to a colleague the other day. "Why, he is as alert and clever as the Aurora bridegroom. You know how bridegrooms setting off on the honeymoon have a way of forgetting their brides and buying tickets only for themselves. Well, that is what this bridegroom did in Aurora. And when his wife said to him, 'Why, you only bought one ticket, dear,' he answered readily: 'By Jove, dear, I never thought of myself.'"

CIGARETTE LEAST HARMFUL.

Pipe is Next, But the Cigar is the Most Noxious of All.

Smoking nowadays is commonly tolerated in the house, and even in the drawing-room a cigarette is sometimes permitted. The smoking of a cigar, pleasant though it may be to the smoker, and however irreproachable its quality, is banned by most careful housewives in their sanctuaries because its reek is so persistent, says the London Lancet.

The stale smell of cigar smoke in a room is peculiarly unpleasant and peculiarly difficult to get rid of. It clings to the curtains and to most of the articles of furniture which present any sort of an absorbent surface. It is not so to the same extent with cigarettes or with pipes. In the case even of a single cigar, books, papers and textiles reek of its stale flavor, and the room requires abundant airing before that flavor is completely eliminated.

Air is an excellent scavenger, but ozone is more active in removing the smell. The effect may be traced to the fact that the smoking of a cigar produces a larger quantity of pungent aromatic oil than does the smoking of a cigarette or pipe. In the case of the cigarette oils are probably burned, even if they are formed in the pipe they condense in the stem, while in the case of the cigar they are probably for the most part discharged into the air. In the form of a cigar tobacco would appear to produce more oils than in the form of a cigarette or when burned in a pipe.

Such common observations are not without hygienic significance. Pyridine, the most poisonous oil produced in the semi-combustion of tobacco, is an abundant product of cigar smoking, as it is also in the pipe, but in the latter there is condensation, while in the former there is little or none. In the cigarette, so ultimately in contact with the air is the burning portion that the production of distilled oils is, comparatively speaking, trifling.

The symptoms of tobacco smoke poisoning are not necessarily due to nicotine; they are more often due to pyridine, or poisoning from the tobacco tar oils.

The tobacco heart is more often traceable to free indulgence in cigar smoking than to a similar indulgence in the pipe and the cigarette. Young boys can smoke—on their great damage, nevertheless—a considerable number of cigarettes or even pipes, but an equivalent in cigars more than satisfies their tobacco appetite, so soon are the toxic effects of cigar smoking made apparent to them. The danger of excessive cigarette smoking is that though so marked symptoms may be manifested, or experienced, yet in the long run decided harm is done, and a dangerous habit, akin to "nipping," is cultivated, which is often found very hard to abandon.

WORLD'S BIGGEST CLOCK.

A clock which it is said, will be the largest in the world will be finished soon at Thomaston, Conn., for a Jersey City soap factory. The clock will be placed on the company's sign on the top of the soap factory in Hudson street, between New York and Grand streets, Jersey City, and will be visible from the river and the New York piers. It will have a diameter of twenty-eight feet. Philadelphia has a clock with a diameter of twenty-five feet, and Westminster, London one with a 22 1/2 foot diameter.

In Europe house cars or caravans are rapidly passing from experimental to practical use. One popular car contains a completely equipped kitchen and sleeping berth for six persons, and has seats on top like the old London houses.

A Canine Carol.

Two or three dogs are nearly always to be found loafing about every blacksmith's shop. This fact is so well-recognized that detectives, when sent out after valuable dogs that have been lost, invariably visit first all the blacksmiths' shops in the neighborhood.

The reason why dogs frequent the blacksmiths' shops is that they love incandescent odor and the taste of burning hoofs. They sniff the odor as a woman sniffs a rose, and they eat the hoof parings as a gourmet eats truffles.

Landseer, the great animal painter, knew this odd fact well, and in his famous picture of "The Smith's Shop" a dog in the foreground is greedily munching shavings of toasted hoof.

Wissen four Alle had a symposium to discuss the value of salt in digestion. One of the physicians wrote that, while salt in moderation is good for the stomach, and often absolutely necessary, it ought to be taken apart from the meals, in much the same way as medicine. He bases his judgment on the way the artificial digestion proceeds in the presence of marine salt.
